Doubles Their Lead.

E. P. Phillips' majority of 14 was increased to 29 and Walter Holland's majority for sheriff over W. A. Patterson was increased from 12 to 23.

After declaring the result of the county, the committee re-issued certificates to the successful candidates, showing their increased vote.

All the candidates, whose nominations were contested resolved the support of the people who endorsed the course of Governor Willson, Judge Wells and other county officials in fighting night riders.

They are awaiting extradition from California to Arizona.

Wright Carries Passengers.

Lansing, Nov. 18.—Heedless his pupils, Count Lambert and Captain Girardville, who were each given a half hour's lesson in aviation today, Wilbur Wright made successive trips in his airplane with Senator Quincey de Leon, a member of the Spanish court, and Marquis de Villam. King Alfonso's equerry. He then made a flight alone. His subsequent descent was thrilling, the airplane describing a spiral as it came down to the earth, being under perfect control all the time.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE REPORTED

Farmer Living Near Paducah Routed Out of Bed and Whipped.

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 18.—News of another night rider outrage in the Redfoot lake district reached here late yesterday afternoon, but as yet the reports have not been verified. It is said that two nights ago a band of masked men took a farmer living near the town of Pish out of his bed and administered a severe whipping. Push is located near the Dyer county line, on what is known as the "Scatter" Redfoot lake. Capt. C. B. Rogan, who is in charge of the garrison at Fort Rogan, near Samburg, has received no information regarding the alleged whipping. General Caldwell was advised of the report, and at once ordered a full investigation. The Fort Rogan garrison is at present engaged in erecting winter quarters. Lumber for a substantial house, large enough to shelter the officers and forty enlisted men, has been donated and the structure will be completed in a few days.

Rivers and Harbors Need Millions For Maintenance and Dredging— Chief of Engineers Make Reports

General Marshall Recommends Extensive Improvements of Pacific Ports and Island Waterways.

He asks for $2,370,000 for the Philippine fortifications. He says improved defenses are imperative. He wants $450,000 for Honolulu fortifications, and $11,000,000 for rivers and harbors.

His recommendation includes Galveston harbor, $270,000; channel, $200,000; ship canal, $480,000; Port Arthur canal, $210,000; $750,000 for improving Mississippi's rivers; $400,000 for Kentucky river; $300,000 for tunnels under the Chicago river. He wants $2,000,000 for the Mississippi river commission. The recommendations include $345,000 for the Cumberland river work.

Davis Trial Ready.

Omaha, Nov. 18.—The trial of Charles Davis, accused of murdering Dr. Huston, is fixed for November 23. The defense will present the biggest array of lawyers ever seen in a Nebraska trial. Both sides are prepared with long lists of witnesses.

Boarding Home for Girls.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 18.—The state convention of the King's Daughters, in session here today, decided to establish in Louisville a boarding home for young girls who come to the city to secure work. All the King's daughter circles in the state will co-operate in the work. The convention also decided to establish a home for neurasthenics and a committee was appointed to arrange details and recommend a place of location.

FIREWORKS SOLD BY PADUCAH HOUSE TO MEMPHIS HOUSE

Long ago Paducah wholesale houses made records for themselves by the manner in which they invaded the fields of their competitors of the larger cities, like St. Louis, Louisville and Memphis, and get business. It has given the city a great reputation as a jobbing center. Not satisfied with this, however, they have recently been selling goods to even wholesale houses in some of these cities. The biggest deal of that sort consummated in some time was the sale last week of ten cars of fireworks to Messrs. L. S. Dutton, Son & Company, to four wholesale grocers in Memphis. The firm was making such rounds into the Memphis territory, a representative was commissioned to ascertain how it was done. He found the Paducah house underbidding his own house, and in a position to sell him at less price than he was buying for and he immediately wired three other Memphis houses to send representatives up here, and the four closed for the eighteen cars. A car load of fireworks sells for about $1,500. All the shipments will be made from here, and the order, with other orders DuRois & Company have from local grocers and wholesalers all over West Tennessee and Kentucky will take all the produce of one factory from now until Christmas.

FOUNTAIN AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH WILL BE OPENED FOR SERVICES SUNDAY

The edifice of the Fountain Avenue Methodist church will be opened Sunday. The new building has been completed at a cost of $25,000 and is modern in all its appointments. The former pastor, the Rev. G. W. Itanks, has returned to enjoy the fruits of his labors.

Dr. W. P. McMurtry, the general secretary of the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Church, will arrive Saturday night to preach the opening sermon at 11 a. m. Sunday, and will preach also at night. Dr. McMurtry is truly a great preacher, having had wide experience both as a preacher and a lecturer. He came near being elected

DELIVERS HIMSELF.

Bearing her own mittens for incarceration in the county jail for 50 days, Mrs. Eliza Sweeney appeared at the door of that institution this morning and was admitted by Jailer Eaker, to whom Mrs. Sweeney is no stranger, having served many similar sentences. Mrs. Sweeney lives in Dogtown and is addicted to periodic spells of drunkenness in which she makes things happen for the denizens of that vicinity. When arrested and brought before police court she always asks permission to go home and get her clothes, and taking the mittens herself goes to the jail and is admitted. At the jail, when she recovers from the evil effects of a spree, she takes charge of the female department as "matron" and also superintends the cooking.

CHINESE COLONY NOT INTERESTED IN ROYAL DEATH

Paducah's colony of Chinese is not aware that Tiao Hsi An, the dowager empress of China, and Kuang Hsu, the emperor, are dead. The all-mandarin laundrymen do not read the American newspapers, and place little confidence in them, for the most part rapid methods of collecting news is strange to them. Before they will believe that the emperor and empress are dead the news must travel by mail all the way from their home country across the Pacific, and then they will begin at the bottom of the page, and read the details backwards in their own language. The first the laundrymen heard of the deaths was yesterday when their patrons told them, but their only reply was "I heard so."

The local colony has not planned to honor the memories of the rulers in any way, although there are many ceremonies that are usually gone through with. When the news is learned officially some form of the ceremony may be held. It was with diffidence that the laundrymen could be drawn into a conversation about the deaths, but over the infant emperor, P'u Yi the workers dropped the iron for a minute, and in bated breath asked something of the new ruler. Then the iron was picked up, and it was evident that the Chinese were more desirous of making American money than learning of the deaths of their rulers.

President Alfaro Seeks Health. Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 18.—President Alfaro arrived here today from Quito. His health is not good and he comes here seeking a change. Secretary of the Interior Reyes and William C. Fox, the American minister, accompanied the president from the capital.

Abbruzzi Sore

Home, Nov. 18.—A close friend of Duke Abruzzi explains his position following the release of Miss Elkins from the engagement. He blames Senator Elkins for the troubles. He says the family was so fiercely proud it interfered with the plans. He bitterly assails the rude and insolent vulgarity of American newspapers regarding the engagement.

REVOLUTIONISTS CROWD INTO PEKIN; TROUBLE FEARED

Yuan Shikai Takes Hand in Shaping Affairs, Claiming to Have Support.

Kang Yu Wei Most Likely of Pretenders.

U. S. AND JAPAN AGREEING.

Pekin, Nov. 18.—Tsi An, although dead, through her last executive act, the edict declaring P'u Yi the heir to the throne and making Prince Chun regent during his minority, continues a menace to the peace of China. The native Chinese are disinclined to accept the perpetuation of the Manchu rule, and many revolutionary leaders are reported to have arrived in the capital in the last few days.

Yuan Shi Kai is looked upon as the natural leader of the Chinese element, and will, through his opinion in the grand council, undoubtedly have a powerful influence in shaping the course of affairs under the new regime. It is tacitly understood that he has the silent support of the United States, Great Britain and several of the other powers, as he has been the leader in introducing modern or occidental methods of business throughout the empire in face of the stubborn opposition of the late dowager.

The new regent, however, is also a man of progressive ideas and has taken energetic measures to provide against disorder so that it does not seem likely that there will be any immediate foreign meddling.

Anti-Foreign Feeling. The lower classes in Peking and many other chief cities are bitter against foreigners and western innovations. An outbreak on their part against a new government suspected of occidentalizing tendencies is the foremost danger that the government must meet. Nothing but the intervention of armed strength, it is believed, can insure the safety of the palace from mob invasion.

If the impression gains general credence among the Chinese that Chin and his young son were elevated by foul means, nothing, it is predicted, will prevent an armed contest against their accession. Such a discord would involve China from end to end and might bring warfare into every province of its extent.

A further disquieting feature is the attitude of the comparatively small but disproportionately zealous ultra progressive wing. This party includes the Chinese Reform association, numbering Chinese exiled patriots in Manila, the United States and Europe, and among other leaders Kang Yu Wei, the most personally popular figure and the character commanding the strongest allegiance among the enlightened Chinese of today.

Kang Yu Wei Supported. The Republican society of the Bow Wong Wai, strong in the Philippine Islands and active in spreading anti-dynastic notions in China, expects, it is reported, to support Kang Yu Wei in an early demonstration.

Much depends upon the attitude of the 14 viceroys and 23 governors, who are approximately autonomous in the direction of their provinces. They command the imperial troops quartered in their dominions and are the sole and untrammelled overlords over all within their boundaries. The imperial mandates themselves being looked on by the more powerful as directive rather than compulsory.

At the legations, while there is no longer any doubt that the death of the emperor was due to natural causes, there is a wide difference of opinion as to the manner of the death of the dowager empress. None of the various rumors in this connection, however, can be traced to an authoritative source, and the general tendency is to accept the palace statement as final.

Obsequies Begun.

The runs on the banks have apparently come to an end and no less than 11 banks have been forced to suspend, most of them permanently in all probability.

An edict issued today instructs Prince Pu Lan and Chen Pi to proceed to the western tombs and select a site for the grave of Kwang Hsu. There will be continuous obsequies at the palace for a period of 27 days.

These observances began yesterday and the function was attended by the dowager empress, Yehonah, and representatives of the various governmental departments.

Peace Dove Hovers.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Marked interest was shown among diplomats particularly over the proposed statement of the position of the United States and Japan regarding their attitude towards China. They may

LET US GIVE THANKS.

The prices on the Thanksgiving meats will be reasonable this year, and a big sale of turkeys, geese, chickens and ducks is expected by the marketers. Turkey will sell for 16 and 17 cents per pound; geese will sell for 50 and 75 cents apiece, ducks will bring 25 to 30 cents and chickens will bring 20 to 40 cents. These prices are somewhat lower than the prices were last year at Thanksgiving time. The marketers are well stocked with the Thanksgiving meats and also with the vegetables that go with meats. Wild fowl is in little scarce on market, but "possum and rabbits are plentiful.

The intention of both countries in this matter are well known, the United States having declared that it intended to respect the territorial integrity of the country and pledged itself to the "open door." Japan having given her assent to the latter idea and only very recently having signed a convention with Russia looking to the maintenance of the status quo in eastern Asia.

The question was naturally asked why should Japan desire such a statement regarding her position; at the same time, her frankness in the matter was commended. Much, it was admitted, should developments in China, arising out of the new order of things, make it necessary for any of the nations, for the sake of protecting their interests, use the military or naval forces, in the event that an uprising should occur.

The proposition has been looked upon by the United States as a friendly and courteous suggestion on the part of Japan, and it is presumed will be made effective by a formal exchange of notes, no treaty being necessary. This will insure the most complete harmony of action in China in the event that such a step should be necessary. It also will convince the people of the United States, in the minds of the state department officials, of the sincerity of Japan in her dealings respecting the United States and China.

Sympathy of Uncle Sam.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Secretary Root's directions to Minister Rothchild at Peking, to express to the Chinese authorities the confidence of the American government and people in the death of the emperor and empress dowager are in the following words:

"You will convey to his imperial majesty, the emperor, and his imperial highness, the regent, the deep respect and sincere sympathy of the president, the secretary of state and the American people on the death of his imperial majesty, the late empress dowager."

Mrs. Eastman Weds Edwards.

VAN VISSINGEN HAS ARRANGED TO LIVE AFTER TERM

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The authorities are convinced by investigation that Van Vissingen had accomplices. They believe he is shouldering the blame for his accomplices. The prisoner will be held here until a full investigation. Officers believe arrangements were made whereby something will be saved for Van Vissingen after he serves his sentence. The list of forgeries was discovered so complete that investigators declare it impossible to be the work of one man.

STARKS-ULLMAN PLANT REOPENED FOR SIX MONTHS

Nashville People May Bring Big Saddlery Concern to This City.

Expect to Employ 150 Hands
at Maximum.

THEIR PLANT BURNED DOWN

The stock of the bankrupt Starks-Ullman Saddlery company was sold yesterday afternoon to the Nashville Saddlery company, of Nashville, Tenn., for the cash payment of $10,000.

The sale was made yesterday afternoon in Referee in Bankruptcy E. W. Hagby's court. The bids were opened by Trustee H. H. Lovins, and as the Nashville Saddlery company was the highest bidder, the stock was sold to that company. The sale meets with the approval of all the creditors of the Starks-Ullman company and so will be confirmed.

The Nashville Saddlery company is having the plant of Starks-Ullman cleaned up this week and put in running order, and by the first of next week a force of men will be at work which means employment for 35 men. The Nashville concern is considering a permanent location for its plant, and the officers are well pleased with Paducah and the reputation Paducah has through the south. The plant of the Nashville Saddlery company, which was located at Nashville, was burned to the ground Friday morning, November 6.

The owners of the Nashville Saddlery company, Mr. C. C. Johnson and Mr. J. D. McPhail, were present at the sale yesterday and said they will give Paducah a fair "try out" for the location of their plant. The old Starks-Ullman plant, 3036 North Eighth street, will be opened for at least six months to get the hack orders of the Nashville firm made up. The Nashville firm has a capital of $200,000 and if Paducah is chosen as a permanent location, a new plant will be built that will give employment to 150 hands.

Mr. J. E. McPhail, one of the members of the Nashville firm, formerly lived in Paducah and was with the Morgan Brothers Saddlery company. Every effort will be made to secure this industry for Paducah.

Night Riders Confess

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 18.—Two of the alleged night riders held in the military barracks here broke down. They paved the way to make a full and voluntary confession at a conference with Attorney General Caldwell, and as soon as the other slate attorneys return from Nashville they will be given a chance to tell all they know of the various crimes of the night riders and particularly the culminating atrocity—the murder of Captain Quentin Rankin at Walnut.

Castellanes in Court

Paris, Nov. 18.—The court decided Doni Castellane's suit for his children will begin November 23, despite the request of Princess de Sagan's attorney for delay. Maître Bonnet, Doni's attorney, in court, despite the demands of Anna, that she contemplated divorce proceedings last week, declared an unfortunate moral atmosphere in the Sagan household made the children ill. He related repeated violent quarrels between the prince and princess. He wants the children given to Doni's mother.

Unionists Want Home Secretary to Refuse Them Permit—Gladstone Makes Reply.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, Nov. 18.—The approaching visit to this country of Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World, of New York, and O'Meara Condon was the occasion of an extraordinary attack in the house of commons.
James Craig, unionist member from the eastern division of Down opened the fight by asking Premier Asquith if he was aware that Mr. Ford, who had been declared by three judges to be a known advocate of the use of dynamite, and Mr. Condon, who had been sentenced to death for the murder of an English policeman, intended visiting this country.

Mr. Craig asked also whether licenses permitted them to do so, and, if not, what action the executive proposed to take.

Earl Winton, conservative, followed this up with a reference to the finding of the Parnell commission by asking whether "any steps had been taken to prevent these well known agitators from coming to this country."

Home Secretary Gladstone answered Earl Winton in these words:

"I am not aware of the intentions of these persons. Neither of them is the holder of a license."

John Redmond immediately jumped to his feet and hotly appealed to the speaker. One of the persons mentioned, he informed the speaker, was an official of the American government, and it was incredible that such epithets were permitted to be applied to a high official, who has been in the service of the United States for 20 years.

The speaker agreed that if the statements in question were true they ought not to appear. Mr. Craig offered to send Mr. Redmond proofs of the truth of the facts stated in his question. Mr. Gladstone, recognizing the insufficiency of his first reply, supplemented it with the following statement:

"Mr. Ford, so far as I know, has not been convicted of any criminal offense in this country; as regards
Mr. Condon, a royal pardon, under the great seal, was given him in 1878."

News of Theatres

Lena Rivers.

This is certainly an era of the dramatized novel. The fact that a book has a wide circle of readers is enough nowadays to cause managers to make frantic efforts to secure the rights for the stage, a good thing certainly for the author and a good thing for the public occasionally. The book that has had the most tremendous vogue is to be seen at the Kentucky theater next Saturday, matinee and night, November 21. It is "Lena Rivers," a dramatization of the popular and widely read Mary J. Holmes novel, "Lena Rivers." Its author is the well known dramatist, Beulah Poynter, and her success has been of the pronounced order.

A REWARD OFFERED.

Every electric railway in the United States knows the menace of "fake" accident claims and fraudulent suits. And no honest citizen exists who would not give assistance to prevent any such corrupt cause coming before our courts in the disguise of woe.

Sometimes the sad-faced rascal who is bringing suit was near an accident but did not receive a scratch; sometimes it is an innocent looking criminal who was not even near an accident; sometimes it is a person who was actually hurt but who was to blame himself or herself—and knows it.

Most of these suits arise when some penny-catching lawyer gets hold of a so-called "victim" as dishonest as himself and wants to "share the profits" of suing the Company.

How are such suits maintained?

By perjury.

By witnesses who do not tell the truth.

For evidence upon which a conviction, for perjury, of any witness against this Company in an accident damage suit is obtained, this Company will pay $500.00 at any time during twelve months from date of this offer!

Daily Thought.

By the stubble you may guess the grain.—Homer.

Will the emperor of Germany win the nickname "William the Silent"?

All the night rider organs, which insisted that tobacco troubles had nothing to do with night riding, now declare that the proposed deal between the trust and the burley society has put an end to night riding. My, my! How they would like to get those soldiers out of the Black Patch!

The Louisville Times era when it says "The lawlessness of the past three years in Kentucky has grown out of the tobacco growers' desire for more money for their crops." The tobacco growers of Kentucky never would have conceived the iniquity of night riding. The lawlessness grew out of the cupidity and desire of certain associated dealers to handle all the tobacco grown in Kentucky, and they have forced farmers at the point of a gun to place the tobacco in their hands regardless of the will and interests of the farmer. What ever connection he has with night riding has been forced on him.

HOW IT IS SHOWN.

"The Paducah Sun's special correspondent from Calloway county says the people of that county adore the name of Governor Willson. They showed that emphatically at the last election by casting a majority of 2,300 votes for the other fellow," says the Bowling Green Messenger.

They showed it by nominating for offices at the Democratic county primary men who have aided Governor Willson in protecting Kentucky's good name.

MANILA.

From Manila, our oriental outpost, come rumors. Being the most exposed of our possessions it is but natural that she should be the most sensitive to war's alarms. Soldiers talk shop; their conversations deal much with the possibilities of war, and Manila is the center of a military establishment, remote from the culminating influences of our well protected coasts. Every new development, every change in the current of oriental events, is examined for sinister signs and sensitive Manila shivers with expectancy and the delicate instrument of publicity, the war correspondent, sends the thrill along the wires under the ocean to us.

We catch the spirit back here, and we comprehend the delicious ferment, which makes life in the oriental tropics bearable, the delightful expectancy that permeates Manila society. To our minds the news conjures the clarion notes of the bugle breaking the stillness of the tropic afternoon; galloping horses, quick, sharp orders, the hurrying of feet on ship board and the dodging of Japanese spies among the hidden defenses of the Philippine metropolis. We cannot see the officers off duty on the verandas of their clubs, the privates talking over their brimless mugs about trifling indications, tinged with their own hopes, in an atmosphere where vague speculation becomes probability and a half formed query grows into imminent reality, before the questioning look fades off the face of the author of its being.

Nor do we consider the ordinary outpost precautions, fraught with such weighty significance to the correspondent, who, in an idle hour, can compound a bit of guard house gossip and an ordnance officer's orders into a war cloud, that would set the whole civilized world by the ears.

Yet, it is as we would have it, Manila should remain ever on the alert, anticipating war, we hope will never come; while we back here will discount the gossip feeling, the safer as we contemplate how wide awake our outpost is.

England has always had her India border scares, and continental Europe her Balkan country; but Manila is all our own.

BETWEEN THE GRAFTERS AND THE OCTOPUS.

In an editorial warning burley to tobacco planters that the figures given out as the offer of the American Tobacco company for the pooled burley crops of 1906 and 1907 are below the truth, and advising them not to dispose of their certificates until the deal is closed, the Courier-Journal yesterday morning intimated that the planters are not being fairly dealt with by their own representatives.

President Leilus, of the burley society, and others were present at the meeting, negotiating with the American Tobacco company, and if the figures given out are not correct, Mr. Leilus and his associates know it. If any one is trying to purchase the farmers' certificates at the price published as the one offered by the trust, intending to sell the pool for more than the price published, Mr. Leilus and his associates must have inside knowledge. Governor Willson in his speech at Murray said that Leilus told him he held more than $100,000 worth of burley tobacco, which he did not pool, and the governor charged Leilus with using the burley pool to further his own speculations.

Here is the diplomatically stated charge of the Courier-Journal:

There are reports that speculators within the past few days are buying, or attempting to buy, the pooled tobacco of Kentucky growers.

If such reports are true it might be well for the growers to stand out for good, stiff prices, as the indications point to an advantageous sale of both the 1906 and 1907 crops in the pool.

For instance, the Courier-Journal has reliable authority for saying that the prices which the American Tobacco company has reported a few days ago, to have offered for these crops were under, rather than above, the actual figures. To be exact, the Courier-Journal's information is that for the 1906 tobacco 20 1/2 cents a pound was offered, while for the 1907 tobacco 16 cents a pound was offered.

As to whether these offers are to be accepted by those in charge of the pool, or as to whether better prices can be secured by them, the Courier-Journal knows nothing. It does think, however, that the growers should be aware of these facts before selling their certificates. Has the time come when the farmer finds he has placed his interests in the hands of speculators?

SOME STORIES AROUND TOWN.

Pinns E. Lack, president of the Lack Singletree company, is home from a business trip to Chicago and Cleveland, and reports business booming in those two manufacturing centers since the election. He booked some nice orders for his concern and says manufacturers with whom he talked were very optimistic over the future. At Cleveland he called on the White Steamer company, manufacturers of automobiles, and says they told him they were over 2,000 cars behind in their orders.

It was on a tramp over the Black Patch with a brother of the cloth that Dr. D. O. Wright, rector of Grace Episcopal church, waded nine miles through mud, that sometimes oozed over the tops of his leggings. Russellville was his destination, and his first request on reaching the town was for some quinine of something to "knock a cold."

"Maybe you don't know this is a dry county you're in?" was the inhospitable response to his demand. "Well, I hadn't thought of it as being particularly dry," was Dr. Wright's response, "but I know I'm in it—knee deep."

GEN. DAVID C. COLEMAN STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

St. Louis, Nov. 18.—Gen. David C. Coleman, a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, was paralyzed at his home here today and his condition is serious. He is 84 years old. Gen. Coleman was in command of the federal troops here at the time of Gen. Price's raid. He retired from the army with the rank of brigadier general.

—On account of Thanksgiving coming next week, the Mite society of the German Evangelical church will meet tomorrow afternoon instead of next week, at the home of Mrs. Louis Koh, Jr., 511 South Fifth street.

Sophy of Kravonia

by ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins

A young man rode up the approach to the hall lodge. His mare was a beauty. He sat her well. He was perfectly dressed for the exercise. His features were clear cut and handsome. There was an air of breeding about him as about the splendid Newfoundland dog which ran behind him. Julia looked at she was hidden. "He's handsome," she said. "Why?" she laughed low—"I believe I know who it is—I think I've seen him somewhere."

"Have you?" Sophy's question was breathless.

"Yes, I know! When we were at York? He was one of the officers there. He was in a box. Sophy, it's the Earl of Dunstanbury!" Sophy did not speak. She looked. The young man—he could be hardly more than twenty—came on. Sophy suddenly hid behind her friend. "To save my pride, not her own," generous Julia explained; Sophy herself advances no such excuse, but she could see. She saw the rider's eye rest on Julia. Did it rest in recognition? It almost seemed so, yet there was doubt. Julia blushed, but she forbore from smiling or from seeking to nurse his memory. Yet she was proud if he remembered her face from across the footlights. The young man, too, being but a young man, blushed a little as he gave the pretty girl by the gate such a glance as discreetly told her that he was of the same mind as herself about her looks. These silent interchanges of opinion on such matters are pleasant diversions as one plods the highway.

He was gone. Julia sighed in satisfied vanity. Sophy awoke to stern realities.

"Gracious," she cried, "he must have come to lunch! They'll want a salad! You'll be here tomorrow—do!" And she was off up the drive and around to her own regions at the back of the house.

"I believe his lordship did remember my face," thought Julia as she wandered back to Woodbine cottage.

But Sophy washed lettuce in her scullery, which, save for its bare purposes, was a pleasant, airy apartment, looking out on a path that ran between yew hedges and led around from the lawn to the office of the house. Diligently she washed, as Mrs. Smilker had taught her, whether tightly or not in nothing to the purpose here, but how many miles away was her mind? So far away from lettuce that it seemed in no way strange to look up and see Lord Dunstanbury and his dog on the path outside the window at which she had been performing her task. He began hastily:

"Oh, I say, I've been seeing my mare get her feed, and—do you think you could be so good as to find a bone and some water for Lorenzo?"

"Lorenzo?" she said.

"My dog, you know." He pointed to the handsome beast, which wagged an expectant tail.

"Why do you call him that?" Dunstanbury smiled. "Because he's magnificent. I dare say you never heard of Lorenzo the Magnificent?"

"No. Who was he?"

"A duke—Duke of Florence, in Italy."

He had begun to watch her face and seemed not impatient for the bone.

"Florence? Italy? The lettuce dropped from her hands. She wiped her hands slowly on her apron.

"Do you think you could get me one?"

"Yes; I'll get it."

She went to the back of the room and chose a bone.

"Will this do?" she asked, holding it out through the window.

"Too much meat."

"Oh! She went and got another.

"This one all right?"

"Capital! Do you mind if I stay and see him eat it?"

"No."

"Here, Lorenzo! And thank the lady!"

Lorenzo directed three sharp barks at Sophy and fell to. Sophy filled and brought out a bowl of water. Lord Dunstanbury had lighted a cigar, but he was watching Sophy. A new light broke on him suddenly.

"I say, were you the other girl behind the gate?"

"I didn't mean you to see me."

"Only caught a glimpse of you. I remember your friend, though."

"She remembered you too."

"I don't know her name, though."

"Julia Roberts."

"Ah, yes—is she about?"

"He's about—is she—er—a great friend of yours?"

boue, hasn't he? Is she—er—a great friend of yours?"

His manner was perhaps a little at fault. The slightest note of chaff had crept into it, and the slightest was enough to put Sophy's quills up.

"Why not?" she asked.

"Why not? Every reason why she should be," he answered with his lips. His eyes answered more, but he refrained his tongue. He was scrupulously a gentleman, more so perhaps than, had sexes and places been reversed, Sophy herself would have been. But his eyes told her. "Only," he went on, "if so, why did you bide?"

That bit of chaff did not anger Sophy, but it went home to a different purpose, far deeper, far truer home than the young man had meant. Not the mark only reddened; even the cheeks flushed. She said no word. With a fling out of her arms—a gesture strangely, prophetically foreign as it seemed to him in after days—she exhibited herself—the print frock, the belted apron, the bare arms, red hands, the ugly knot of her hair, the scrap of cap she wore. For a moment her lips quivered, while the mark—the red star of future days and future fame—grew redder still.

The only sound was of Lorenzo's worrying the last tough scrap of bone. The lad, gentleman as he was, was good flesh and blood, too, and the blood was moving. He felt a little tightness in his throat. He was new to it. New, too, was Sophy Gronech to what his eyes said to her, but she took it with head erect and a glance steadily leveled at his.

"Yes," he said, "but I shouldn't have looked at any of that, and I shouldn't have looked at her, either."

Brightly the mark glowed; subtly the eyes glowed. There was silence again. Almost a start marked Dunstanbury's awakening. "Come, Lorenzo," he cried. He raised his hat and turned away, followed by his dog, Lorenzo the Magnificent.

Sophy took up her lettuce and carried them into the kitchen.

"There you are at last! And what's your name in a temper now?" asked Mrs. Smilker. She had learned the signs of the mark.

Sophy smiled. "It's not temper this time, Mrs. Smilker. I'm very happy today," she said. "Oh, I do hope the salad will be good!"

For he who was to eat of the salad—had he not forgotten print frock and belted apron, bare arms, red hands, ugly knot and execrable cap? He would not have looked at them—no, nor at beautiful, many tinted Julia Roberts in her pride! He had forgotten all these to look at the stained cheek and the eyes of subtle glow. She had glanced in the mirror, of love and slipped from the cup of power.

Such was her first meeting with Lord Dunstanbury. If it were ever forgotten, it was not Dunstanbury who forgot.

The day had wrought much in her eyes. It had wrought more than she dreamed of. Her feet were near the ladder now, though she could not yet see the lowest rung.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation thrown upon his formulae, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and lung-concussions, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

I was at that time a sufferer from kidney trouble and had been for several years. My rest at night was greatly broken and my health was much run down. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply at DuBois, Sou & Co.'s drug store. I took them as directed and was greatly benefited. In Circuit Court.
John Brooks was given judgment against the city of Paducah for $250 for personal injuries and the value of a horse killed in a collision with a street car which was caused by the animal shying at a pile of dirt that had been left on the street by the street cleaning department over night without a danger signal being placed near. The jury found for the traction company, which was co-defendant with the city.

A verdict for the defendant was rendered in the case of James F. Clark against the Paducah Traction company.

The suit of the First National bank of Louisville against W. L. Hansbro was continued by agreement.

F. H. Jones and W. S. Purdom were excused from further jury service, and M. L. Bryan and Gus G. Singleton substituted.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Owing to the large attendance at the college for the past few weeks the management did not take the time from its pupils to give us its current news, changes, etc. Having been asked by a number of patrons to continue this line of news, we now hope to do so.

Mr. L. B. Phipps, the only Paducah Central graduate in the employ of M. Livingston & Co., has been promoted to the position of head stenographer for that firm. In addition to his promotion he is also doing the work of another stenographer just released. Mr. Phipps is a very deserving young man, of high attainments and sterling qualities.

The college is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Gaston Pool, of Murray, Ky., in which he states: "I made $3.00 this morning in about 45 minutes, taking depositions in shorthand."

Mr. Pool attended Paducah Central Business college less than two months, during which time he studied Gregg shorthand. This remarkable record, so far as we know, is the best ever made in the United States and probably in the world. Prof. Strong, the principal of the college, says Gregg shorthand is with out doubt the easiest system both to write and read.

A number of changes have been made since the last issue of the college notes, of which the foregoing few are mentioned, also Mr. Earl Ingram, bookkeeper in Brookhaven, Miss.; Miss Jessie Parkins, stenographer, Koh Bros. Drug Co.; Miss Flora Waltrip, stenographer for Browning & Hazell, and Mr. Wyndham Allen, stenographer and court examiner, with Grace & Ross.

Miss Addie Dean begins this morning at the A. B. Smith Lumber Co., to relieve Miss Katherine Robinson, who is on the sick list. The A. B. Smith Lumber Co. now employ five of Paducah Central's former pupils, and Mr. Smith's office manager says: "They are all on the first class list."

NEW DEFENSE IS RAISED.
San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—After a series of delays and postponements, the case of I. N. Whan Chang, the Korean accused of the murder of Durham White Stevens, American adviser to the emperor of Korea, was called for trial in Judge Cook's department of the superior court.

Chang was well represented by counsel and will make a vigorous defense, "patriotic insanity" being one of the grounds expected to be advanced in his behalf.

SHAH WANTS PROTECTION.
London, Nov. 18.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says that telegrams have been received from Tehran to the effect that the shah has notified the British and Russian ministers that he can convocate parliament only on condition that the two ministers guarantee the safety of his life and the throne. The ministers were unable to accept the proposal and the shah definitely refused to revive the constitution.

MRS. GUNNESS' LOVE AFFAIRS

Told of by One of State's Witnesses in Trial.

State's Position That Because of Failing Out Between Them He Sought to Harm Her.

SAID LAMPHERE ANNOYED HER

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 18.—That Ray Lamphere made threats against Mrs. Guinness was shown by a number of the state's witnesses and through them also Prosecutor Smith was able to bring out the fact that a strong motive existed for the defendant to annoy Mrs. Guinness and that this annoyance terminated on the morning of April 28, in Lamphere setting fire to the Guinness house.

The love affairs of Mrs. Guinness and Lamphere were also told by Wit-

Difficult Breathing

"I could not lie on either side, my heart fluttered, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk. Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy did wonders for me. I can sleep, eat, and do more work than I have in ten years."

Ham Slater, and in his testimony the state found much of value to strengthen its position that it was because of the falling out between the two that Lamphere sought to harm Mrs. Guinness.

Other witnesses for the state testified on lines similar to those brought out at the coroner's inquest and published at that time.

A. K. Helgelein, the star witness, told of his anxiety over the disappearance of his brother. In reply to the first letter of inquiry to Mrs.

Guinness, he received the following answer:

Her Caring Avoidance.

"Laporte, March 27, 1908. "Mr. Axel K. Helgelein—I have your recent letter, in which you wish to know where your brother Andrew keeps himself. Well, that is just what I would like to know."

"He came here about the middle of January. When he left here he said he wanted to find his brother, who had kept a gambling room in Aberdeen. He thought he was in New York, or possibly had gone to Norway. He wanted to spend some time with me when he returned. When he was in Chicago he said he would be there so short a time that I need not write. I have neither seen nor heard from him since then. I saw a man, who said he had gone back to South Dakota. I will close with friendly greetings."

BELLE GUINNESS.

This letter did not allay the suspicions of Helgelein, and he wrote again to Mrs. Guinness, receiving a reply as follows:

Lamphere Was Crazy.

"Laporte, Ind., April 11, 1908. "Mr. A. K. Helgelein—Your letter I have received some days ago, but have not been able to answer in regard to your brother Andrew. I have tried every which way to find some trace of him. The man who told me he is in South Dakota is named Lamphere, who worked for me a while ago. He said he had heard it from some one he knew in Mansfield, and he had also probably told them about the $10,000. I know right away that it was a lie.

"But this Lamphere began to find so many wrong things to talk about until at last they took and arrested him and they had three days to examine him and see if he was right. They found him not quite crazy enough to put him in a hospital, but perfectly sane he is not. He is now out under bonds and is going to have a trial next week, therefore there is no foundation to the stories told, but one thing I am sure of is that he in one way or another has taken the letter from Andrew he had sent to me.

"The man who is working for me found a piece of the letter in the barn, door one evening when Lamphere was around. There is no name on this paper, but I know his writing, and it was written to a woman and it seems he had thought of coming back in May and it is very natural that he (Lamphere) has also got a hold of other of his letters, but to find out positively in regard to this is almost impossible.

Wanted Mother to Come.

"Others have told me that Lamphere was jealous of Andrew, and for that reason troubled me this way, but to me he did not say anything, and I did not mention it to him when Andrew left. This Lamphere drank romuch, and I got the impression that he was not quite right and others say the same.

"Now this is what Andrew himself told me, and I believe it to be true. Andrew had sent to him a lot of money when he was here. Some of this I got for a mortgage, which he had made over to him, and a lot of cash money, but I do not think it was so much. He had a lot of checks, but as far as I know I think they were all payable to himself, and he had other valuable papers.

"I think it would be best for you to sell the farm and creatures as soon as you can and come here in May. When Andrew comes up there again, which he no doubt will some time, be sure and do not tell him that I told you this, or do not tell it to the other, either. I must now do the best I can here, and we must hope that all will come out all right. I think it is this half-crazed Lamphere who has started it all, but there is hardly anything to do about it.

BELLE GUINNESS.

Wonders at Disappearance.

Following a third inquiry came this letter:

"Laporte, Ind., April 24, 1908. "Mr. A. K. Helgelein—Your welcome letter I received, for which I thank you. It is a wonder to me as well as you, as to where Andrew keeps himself. It is very strange that the man should go away without his belongings. I can not remember the accurate date he left Laporte, but it was either the 15th or 16th of January. My little daughter, 14 years old, took him to the street car then. He went by way of Michigan City.

"Two or three days afterward I had a letter from him in Chicago, saying that he had hunted for his brother, but did not find him, and that the next day he would look around the board of trade to get track of his brother. If he could not find him he would go to New York and find out if he had gone to Norway. As I said before, he asked me not to answer his letter until I had one from him. This is all that I can tell, and I have not his letter.

"I got the letter in the morning and read it and laid it in a china closet in the kitchen and went to milk, and when I came back the letter was gone. That Lamphere was here, and he has probably taken it, but that part of a letter which I spoke of we found in the barn door in the evening when he was around. I will send it to you.

"I recognize Andrew's writing and I think you do, too. You speak of sending me money with which to discover what has become of Andrew. If I thought this would be of any use I would not go and do the inquiring, so I would be useless for you to send any. I assure you that I will do all I can if you will take a trip down here to see what you can do in the case. Be very careful with that part of the letter I am sending you and send it back to me in your next letter, if you please. Heartiest regards from me all.

BELLE GUINNESS.

The following is a copy of the piece of letter referred to in the letter:

"My Very Best Friend—I am well, and the spring is here, as the snow is going fast. My creatures, most of them, slept outside yesterday and tonight without cover. The cows who have calves I have inside, also those who expect to calve soon. I am happy every time I write you. I think I can come to you in the month of May."

This was the first time Lamphere had heard the letters—in fact, the first time the actual contents of them had become public.

Cashier Pliner, of the First National bank of Laporte, identified a photograph of Andrew Helgelein as the man who came to the bank with Mrs. Guinness early in January and drew $2,900.

TO PALE, THIN PEOPLE.

Druggist W. B. McPherson Offers to Pay for Samose If It Does Not Make Thin Folks Fat.

Pale, thin people are simply suffering from want of nourishment. They may eat enough, but this food is not properly digested and does them no good.

Samose, the remarkable flesh-forming food, should be used by all who are pale, weak and thin. It mingles with the food and aids assimilation, so that when taken for a short time, nature will soon assert her normal powers, and the food that is eaten will give strength and good flesh.

Weigh yourself before you commence the use of Samose, and you will notice a steady gain. Samose is not a cod liver oil or similar nauseating concoction, but a scientific flesh-forming food that restores the thin and scrawny to their proper weight, and fills the weak and debilitated with vigor and vitality.

The woman who longs for rosy cheeks and the plumpness of beauty should use Samose. The man who wants to be strong and well and gain health and good flesh, will find his desires accomplished by Samose.

Such remarkable results have followed the use of Samose that Druggist W. B. McPherson is willing to pay for the treatment if it does not give the desired results. He makes this offer generally and wants all who are thin, weak or out of health to get a box of Samose from him on those terms.

How to Get Strong.

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress street, Chicago, tells of a way to become strong: He says: "My mother who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it's my duty to tell those who need a tonic and a strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. VAN VLISSINGEN
CHANGES MIND

Not to Commence at Once Serving Sentence.

Untangling His Crooked Business—Examiners Could Not Distinguish Between Forgeries.

IS TO ASSIST THE ASSIGNEES.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Peter Van Vliissingen, whose arrest yesterday for forgeries which will reach $700,000, caused a sensation, decided today to forego temporarily his desire to begin immediately serving his prison sentence.

He will remain in Chicago a sufficient time to aid in untangling his business affairs which the assignees found in a very snarled condition.

So clever were his forgeries of notes and mortgages that the assignees were unable to tell the genuine from the spurious when they were presented by anxious holders, and they had to be referred to the prisoner.

Recognizes Forgeries.

One batch was taken to the jail and showed a face value of about $28,000. Half of the papers, readily distinguished by the man who devised them, were forgeries.

Eighty thousand dollars is the amount unearthed today, most of which was in the hands of prominent local brewers.

A large number of people in moderate circumstances were caught, however, for some the loss of which will be seriously felt.

Judge Bethea, in the United States district court today, appointed a receiver in bankruptcy for Van Vliissingen's property.

Lost $300,000.

It was learned today that Van Vliissingen had lost about $300,000 in the last five years in exploiting a patent medicine. He was one of the organizers and principal financial backers of a corporation which for years advertised largely in magazines and other publications. The preparation, which was a salve for skin diseases, did not have a large sale despite the profuse advertising and last year Van Vliissingen said to have withdrawn from the corporation with a loss of about $300,000.

CAMPAIGN FUND
A LITTLE SHY

But Chairman Mack Says "We'll Pay It".

Permanent Quarters Will Be Established Soon Either in New York or Washington

TO DISSEMINATE DOCTRINES.

New York, Nov. 18.—The Democratic national committee finds itself unable to meet the expenses of the late campaign. Chairman Norman E. Mack said:

"We did not receive enough money to pay all of our obligations, but every bill we owe will be paid. I shall regard them as personal obligations."

Mr. Mack explained that the total receipts from all sources aggregated only about $500,000. The detailed statement of receipts and expenditures will be filed with the secretary of state by Herman Ridder on Nov. 24th.

Chairman Mack, while looking a bit blue over the financial condition, announced that the permanent national headquarters of the Democratic party would very shortly be opened in either Washington or New York.

Who Will Pay It?

"Who is going to pay for it? I knew you would ask that question," said Chairman Mack. "The Democratic party of the United States is going to pay for it. I have had offers from every state in the Union to contribute to a fund for the purpose. Republicans keep headquarters open in Washington year in and year out. We are supposed to do all our campaign work in three months every four years, instead of keeping a headquarters, through which we may be able to educate the people from year to year."

"National headquarters either in Washington or New York will shortly be opened, and we shall try to educate the people of the country up to an appreciation of Democratic principles."

Mr. Mack spoke with some show of feeling of a personal letter he had received from Mr. Bryan, thanking him for his work in the campaign. As the letter was strictly personal, he could not make it public. Mr. Mack will be in the city for a week or ten days, closing up the work of the national committee.

R. B. SMITH DEAD

FORMER GOVERNOR OF MONTANA VICTIM OF UREMIA.

Kallispell, Mont., Nov. 18.—Former Governor R. B. Smith died in a hospital here of uremic poisoning.

Robert Burns Smith was born in Hickman county, Ky., December 29, 1854. In early life he taught school and subsequently read law. He was admitted to the bar at Mayfield, October 19, 1877, and practiced there until 1882, when he removed to Montana, locating at Dillon. He was a member of the Montana constitutional convention in 1883; was United States district attorney for Montana from 1885 to 1889; was city attorney of Helena in 1891-2, and in 1891 made an unsuccessful race for congress. In 1896 he was elected governor, serving four years. Since his retirement from office he had practiced law in Helena until recently, when he went to Kallispell because of ill health. In politics he was a Democrat.

Burns Smith, as he was generally known, is survived by a number of relatives in Western Kentucky, and was personally known to many Kentuckians. He visited his old home in Mayfield several years ago.

The Streets in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Few of the citizens of the city know the names of the streets in Oak Grove cemetery, although the families are few that have no relative or friends in Paducah's pretty city of the dead. In the waiting room at the cemetery there is a map of the cemetery for a guide to the public. It is a pretty piece of work executed by Robert H. Richardson, the assistant city engineer, who did the work in odd minutes. Around the map is an ornamental ivy border, while the lettering is done in rustic oak and old English Gothic.

At the Trimble street entrance the leading street is Myrtle, while to the right is West street, named after a former mayor, and to the left branches Rose street. To the right is the new addition and in the naming of the streets the councilmen have been honored. In succession are Porteous, Johnson, Jackson, Williamson, Fisher and Terrell streets. In the first addition to the cemetery the streets were named after trees, and there are Oak, Elm, Ivy, Magnolia, Cedar, Willow and Cypress avenues.

In the old cemetery, which is the rear of the cemetery, the streets have more unusual names. Beginning at the boundary the streets are named: Charity, Faith, Silent, Mercy, Rest, Peace and Hope. The motto of the cemetery is in Latin: "De Mortuis nil nisi Bonum," which translated means: "Say nothing but good of the dead."

ROCKEFELLER TO TAKE STAND.

Standard Oil Trust Probe Is Resumed in New York.

New York, Nov. 18.—Testimony concerning the subsidiary pipe line companies of the Standard Oil company was heard at the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the so-called oil trust, and counsel for the company announced that John D. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold and James A. Moffett, who have been summoned to appear in the company's defense, probably will not take the witness stand until later in the week.

The three officials of the company were served with subpoenas by United States Marshal Henkel. It is understood that Mr. Rockefeller's testimony will have to do with the formation of the Standard Oil company and its early development.
